The company also announced it has appointed Graham McLean to the Board as a non-executive director with effect from 1 October 2023.

“Donal has provided a wealth of knowledge and experience to the Board during his 11-year tenure,” said Board Chair Scott St John. “His global leadership credentials in medical technologies have enabled him to make a significant contribution and we thank him for this.

“With Donal preparing to step away, we are very pleased to have secured Graham as a director,” said Mr St John. “Similar to Donal, Graham has carved out a successful global career in the medical device field and we are confident he will be an impactful addition to the Board.”
